

LET YOUR CRAZY OUT

THIS LOUD SHIRT DAY!

Friday 14 May 2010

Every year in Australia hundreds of babies are diagnosed deaf and more lose their hearing due to illness.

Loud Shirt Day is a day where the usual dress rules are thrown out and the whole organisation participates by wearing their loudest, brightest or craziest shirt, tie or socks, in return for a gold coin donation. The vital funds raised will go a long way to support deaf and hearing impaired children in SA at the Cora Barclay Centre.

The Cora Barclay Centre help children in SA who are deaf and hearing impaired develop clear natural spoken language so they may fully participate in their local community, school and the hearing world.

The Cora Barclay Centre is a non-profit organisation that relies on community support to provide services to children with hearing loss. We need your help to fundraise to continue to provide the life changing services to SA children who are deaf.
